

Medical PG in Germany guided by doctors

Simplify your journey to medical training in Germany with expert guidance from doctors who've been there.

At MedGermany, we're more than consultants—we're doctors who've walked the same path

We understand the challenges of pursuing postgraduate medical training in Germany and are here to simplify your journey. Our mission is to provide clear, actionable guidance at every step, from documentation to licensure and beyond.

Our Story

At MedGermany, we're not just consultants—we're doctors who've walked in your shoes. We founded medgermany after navigating the same crossroads you face today: Should we pursue the USMLE, PLAB, or NEET? The confusion, the pressure, the lack of clear guidance—it's a journey we know all too well. After weighing our options, we chose Germany's PG system, a path that transformed our careers and opened doors we never imagined.

Why We Do This

We built MedGermany to be the mentor we wished we'd had: someone to simplify the complexities of pursuing PG in Germany. Our mission is to guide MBBS graduates through every step—from understanding the pros of Germany's healthcare system to securing licensure and landing a residency.

Your Pathway to Germany

A clear, step-by-step guide to building your medical career in Germany
—from orientation to permanent residency.

1

Orientation & Decision

- Gather information about pursuing a Doctor/Dentist career in Germany.
- Consider the pros and cons before making a final decision.

2

Pathway Research

- Conduct in-depth research and explore online resources about the application process.
- This is especially important for those aiming for a Dental License.
- Look into different visa categories as well.

3

Learn German Language

- Begin learning German, either through local language institutes or online programs.
- Prepare thoroughly for language proficiency exams.

4

Attestation & Translation

- Have your degree documents and transcripts attested and translated.
- Use a recognized German court-authorized translator.

5

Application for Medical/Dental License

- Select the German state for your Approbation (License) application.
- Submit all necessary documentation.
- Receive a provisional license (Defizitbescheid) if additional training is required.

6

Hospitation & FSP Training

- Seek a Hospitation (Observership) at a German hospital.
- Enroll in an FSP (Fachsprachprüfung) Training course.

7

Visa Application

- Obtain an acceptance letter from a German hospital.
- Apply for Visa Category D: Recognition of Professional Qualification (or language study).

8

FSP Exam (Fachsprachprüfung)

- Take the specialized exam testing your German language skills in a clinical setting.
- This is typically mandatory for obtaining Approbation.

9

KP Exam (Kenntnisprüfung)

- Complete the knowledge exam if your credentials are deemed insufficient.
- This assesses both practical and theoretical aspects of medical practice.

10

Licensing & Job Search

- Receive full Approbation after passing required exams.
- Begin your job search and pursue postgraduate training in Germany.

11

Permanent Residence Permit

- Apply for a Work Permit/Residence Permit after securing a job contract.
- After meeting residency requirements, apply for permanent residency.
